*Sub
p 17*
29. (Original) A computer-implemented method for generating localized versions of a localizable Internet document for delivery to a client, the method comprising:

extracting a localizable portion of the localizable Internet document;
storing localized versions of the localizable portion in a directory hierarchy;
translating each localized version to a plurality of encoded versions; and storing the encoded versions in the directory hierarchy.

30. (Original) The method of claim 29, wherein extracting the localizable portion of the localizable Internet document comprises:

extracting a plurality of string literals from the localizable document; and storing the string literals as symbols.

31. (Original) The method of claim 29, wherein the encoded versions represent DBCS, Unicode, and UTF-8 versions of the corresponding localized version.

32-66 (Canceled)

67. (Original) A computer-readable medium having computer-executable instructions for:

extracting a localizable portion of a localizable Internet document;
storing localized versions of the localizable portion in a directory hierarchy;
translating each localized version to a plurality of encoded versions; and storing the encoded versions in the directory hierarchy.

68. (Original) The computer-readable medium of claim 67, wherein extracting the localizable portion of the localizable document comprises:

extracting a plurality of string literals from the localizable document; and storing the string literals as symbols.

69. (Original) The computer-readable medium of claim 67, wherein the encoded versions represent DBCS, Unicode, and UTF-8 versions of the corresponding localized version.

70-100 (Canceled)

101. (Original) A computer arrangement configured to execute computer-executable instructions for:

extracting a localizable portion of a localizable Internet document;
storing localized versions of the localizable portion in a directory hierarchy;
translating each localized version to a plurality of encoded versions; and storing the encoded versions in the directory hierarchy.

102. (Original) The computer arrangement of claim 101, wherein extracting the localizable portion of the localizable document comprises:

extracting a plurality of string literals from the localizable document; and storing the string literals as symbols.

103. (Original) The computer arrangement of claim 101, wherein the encoded versions represent DBCS, Unicode, and UTF-8 versions of the corresponding localized version.

104. (Canceled)

105. (New) The method of claim 29, wherein the localizable Internet document is an electronic mail document.

106. (New) The method of claim 29, wherein the localizable Internet document is a Web page document.

107. (New) The method of claim 30, wherein the localizable Internet document is an electronic communication.

108. (New) The method of claim 107, wherein the electronic communication is electronic mail.

109. (New) The method of claim 30, wherein the localizable Internet document is a portion of a Web page document.

110. (New) The computer-readable medium of claim 67, wherein the localizable Internet document is electronic mail.

111. (New) The computer-readable medium of claim 67, wherein the localizable Internet document is a Web page document.

112. (New) The computer-readable medium of claim 68, wherein the localizable Internet document is an electronic communication.

113. (New) The computer-readable medium of claim 112, wherein the electronic communication is electronic mail.

114. (New) The computer-readable medium of claim 68, wherein the localizable Internet document is at least a portion of a Web page document.

115. (New) The computer arrangement of claim 101, wherein the localizable Internet document is an electronic communication.

116. (New) The computer-readable medium of claim 115, wherein the electronic communication is electronic mail.

117. (New) The computer arrangement of claim 101, wherein the localizable Internet document is at least a portion of a Web page document.

118. (New) The computer arrangement of claim 102, wherein the localizable Internet document is an electronic mail document.

119. (New) The computer arrangement of claim 102, wherein the localizable Internet document is a Web page document.
